On Wednesday we watched the first part of a video on humor in cartoons.

Anatomy of a New Yorker cartoon

1,419,307 views | Bob Mankoff | TEDSalon NY2013 • May 2013

Hopefully you finished watching it at home. I asked you to find New Yorker cartoons you liked and share them with me. Below you will find what I received. Since yesterday was Thanksgiving, I started with those.

Questions for reflection.

1. What do these cartoons tell us about "us"?
2. What other questions came up as you read them? Why are they funny? Which ones provoke the "guilty laugh" and why?
3. Imagine you have to explain to a child how to "read" a cartoon. What would you tell them?
4. Name the elements of a cartoon and the tools illustrators use to convey their messages.

Homework for next Friday (We will NOT have class on Wednesday 29 November or on Wednesday 6 November!)

- 1) Choose a cartoon and do a close reading of it.
- 2) Make your own cartoon and share it with the class.
